

TUESDAY (HUMAN RIGHTS DAY)

See Each Person

"God shows no partiality" (Acts 10:34)

FOR TODAY: Every person we meet carries their own story, struggles, and strengths. In our busy moments, we often forget this. Today, try to really see one person — maybe someone serving coffee, passing in the hall, or sitting nearby. Not to fix anything - just to acknowledge their full humanity, as you hope others will see yours.

→ Question: Who have you truly "seen" today?

SACRED MOMENTS: When Peter spoke of God showing no partiality, he was learning to see beyond prejudices. Jesus taught that God sees each person's full worth — regardless of circumstances or struggles. This divine way of seeing invites us to look at others with new eyes, recognizing that each bears God's holy imprint— the Imago Dei, or Image of God. Today, Human Rights Day, reminds us that every person carries inherent dignity simply because they exist.

→ Practice: When you encounter others today, try silently greeting the sacred presence within them.
